

Smoking Policy

The University of St. Thomas is committed to providing the members of its community with a safe, healthful and smoke-free studying, working and living environment. Since the health hazards and impact of second-hand inhalation of tobacco and other substances are substantial and documented, the University's policy to promote a smoke-free workplace is designed to be attentive to the preferences of non-smoking employees and students.